President Lyndon Johnson on July 3, 1964 after signing the Civil Rights Act

Voting rights activist, organizer of Mississippi Freedom Summer, and Vice-Chair of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party-Fannie Lou Hamer

Alabama Governor George Wallace July 4, 1964

Rita L. Schwerner, wife of Michael Schwerner, July 1964

Malcolm X, April 1964

Reverend C.T. Vivian, Nashville Activist, 1960

Diane Nash, SNCC student leader, Nashville 1960

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

"Letter from a Birmingham Jail", 1963

John Lewis, SNCC Activist, Selma to Montgomery March, 1965

President John F. Kennedy, Televised Address, June 11, 1963

Alabama White Citizens' Council Member

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., SCLC President, Selma to Montgomery March, 1965

James Forman, SNCC leader, Selma to Montgomery March, 1965

Anthony Liuzzo, husband of Viola Liuzzo, Michigan housewife and activist, Selma to Montgomery March

Ella Baker, Executive Director of the SCLC, key advisor to SNCC

Mahalia Jackson, gospel singer and civil rights activist, at the March on Washington

Odetta Holmes, folk singer and activist, at the March on Washington

Nina Simone: singer, songwriter, pianist and civil rights activist

Medgar Evers, Mississippi NAACP Field Representative, leader of desegregation campaign in Jackson, MS

Abbey Lincoln, entertainer and civil rights activist

Charles Morgan, white Alabama lawyer, Birmingham, Alabama September 16, 1963

Fannie Lou Hamer, Mississippi voting rights activist

Mavis Staples, rhythm and blues and gospel singer, civil rights activist

Stokely Carmichael, fulltime SNCC organizer in Mississippi

Robert Parris Moses, SNCC leader of Mississippi voter education and registration efforts

Reverend James Lawson, "SNCC Statement of Purpose", May 14, 1960

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., "Eulogy for the Martyred Children", September 18, 1963

Bayard Rustin, "Why We March" from "Organizing Manual No. 2", March on Washington, 1963